The Midwest Tradition
In 1890, The University of Wisconsin established the first dairy school in the United States. Since then the University of Wisconsin and University of Minnesota have trained over 15,000 students in various dairy manufacturing short courses. The University of Wisconsin and University of Minnesota house two of the premier dairy research centers in the United States. Both universities continue to serve as leaders in dairy manufacturing programs for the dairy industry.

Purpose
The Applied Dairy Chemistry Short Course is an intensive two-day course covering the chemistry of milk and milk products as they relate to specific dairy processing and control functions. It will provide a better understanding of the chemical and physical changes taking place during processing and storage of dairy products and how these may impact the overall quality. The course is designed for students that have had high school chemistry.

When
Tuesday and Wednesday, May 17 & 18, 2011. Check-in begins at 8:00 a.m. on Tuesday, May 17 with classes beginning at 8:30 a.m. Classes begin at 8:00 a.m. on Wednesday. Each student should bring along the course confirmation receipt to the short course.

Where
Room 222 Babcock Hall, 1605 Linden Drive, University of Wisconsin-Madison campus. Parking is restricted, however, parking permits may be purchased through CALS Conference Services with registrations.

Registration Fees
The fee of $325 covers the cost of instructional materials, lab supplies, speaker and staff expenses, dairy chemistry text, lunch (Tuesday) and registration for the two day short course. Lodging and other meals are not covered in the registration fee. An additional $20 parking permit may be purchased with registration.

Instructional Materials
The Applied Dairy Chemistry Manual will be distributed to students on the first day of class. The manual contains outlines for each of the lectures, plus a copy of the reference, Applied Dairy Chemistry and Technology written by Prof. V.S. Packard of the University of Minnesota.

Lodging
Lodging is not included in the registration fee. Make your lodging reservation directly with the hotel/motel you select. As a convenience, a block of rooms has been reserved at two campus area motels until April 17, after which rooms will be sold on a first-come basis. To qualify for the group rate, mention the appropriate group code as listed below.
